18 Trial Date: None Set

19 Plaintiffs and Class Representatives (together “Plaintiffs”), by Plaintiffs’ 20 undersigned attorneys, individually and on behalf of all other persons similarly 21 situated, alleges the following based upon personal knowledge as to Plaintiffs’ own 22 acts, and information and belief as to all other matters, based upon, inter alia, the 23 investigation conducted by and through Plaintiffs’ attorneys, which included, among 24 other things, a review of Defendants’ public and other documents, conference calls 25 and announcements made by Defendants, United States Securities and Exchange 26 Commission (“SEC”) filings, wire and press releases published by and regarding

1 Silver Wheaton Corp. (“Silver Wheaton Canada,”)¹ interviews with former Silver
2 Wheaton employees, depositions, documents produced in discovery, consultation 3 with Canadian operational and legal experts on Canadian tax transfer pricing rules, 4 and information readily obtainable on the Internet. Plaintiffs believe that substantial 5 evidentiary support will exist for the allegations set forth herein after a reasonable 6 opportunity for discovery.

7 NATURE OF THE ACTION

8 1. This is a federal securities class action brought on behalf of a class 9 consisting of all persons and entities who purchased the publically traded securities of 10 Silver Wheaton Canada (i) on a United States exchange, or (ii) in a transaction in the 11 United States, during the period from March 30, 2011 to July 6, 2015, inclusive, and 12 did not sell such securities prior to July 6, 2015. Excluded from the Class are 13 Defendants, all present and former officers and directors of Silver Wheaton and any 14 subsidiary thereof, members of such excluded persons’ families and their legal 15 representatives, heirs, successors or assigns and any entity which such excluded 16 persons controlled or in which they have or had a controlling interest.

17 2. Silver Wheaton, a precious metals streaming company, pioneered the 18 business in 2004. Put simply, Silver Wheaton makes large, up-front payments to 19 mines it neither owns nor operates in exchange for the guaranteed right to buy a large 20 portion of the mine’s future silver output at roughly the costs of producing it, 21 reselling it in the liquid silver market for much higher prices. This Complaint refers 22 to such agreements as “streaming agreements” and the silver from any particular 23 mine “streams.”

25
26 ¹ This Complaint uses the term “Silver Wheaton” to refer to activities undertaken by 27 Silver Wheaton Canada together with its subsidiaries. “Silver Wheaton Canada” 28 refers to Silver Wheaton Corp. alone. “Silver Wheaton Caymans” refers to activities undertaken solely by Silver Wheaton (Caymans) Ltd.

1 3. The up-front payments often amount to several hundred million dollars.
2 Accordingly, Silver Wheaton must select mines and negotiate up-front payments and 3 other streaming agreement terms with great care. The seasoned industry professionals 4 who staff Silver Wheaton's Vancouver, Canada headquarters (i.e., Silver Wheaton 5 Canada), many of whom have long careers in the mining sector, work long hours to 6 carefully model future profitability of silver mines under a host of conditions, while 7 calculating and considering carefully whether various political, geological, and 8 operational risks exist, and if so whether they fall within tolerable limits. Silver 9 Wheaton Canada conducts ongoing due diligence of the mines even after entering 10 into streaming agreements, negotiating favorable outcomes when unexpected events 11 occur at the mines. Beyond that, Silver Wheaton Canada's skilled staff are taken 12 seriously, leveraging their professional reputations to confidently approach both 13 financiers and mines.

14 4. These activities, undertaken by the skilled staff of Silver Wheaton 15 Canada, accounted for nearly all of Silver Wheaton's activities. There was a small 16 remainder, however. Someone had to physically sign the streaming agreements. And 17 someone had to perform the back-office function of selling the silver received, which 18 Silver Wheaton never takes physical possession of, to brokers.

3 6. During the Tax Period of 2005 through 2010, Canada had in place 4 transfer pricing rules eliminating the opportunity for multi-national enterprises to 5 obtain a tax advantage by adopting intra-group pricing strategies that shift income to 6 a related party that is resident in a low tax jurisdiction. These rules required such 7 enterprises to ensure, for tax purposes, that the amounts included in the income of a 8 Canadian taxpayer for transactions entered into with non-resident persons with which 9 the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length reflect the price that arm's length parties 10 would agree to pay.

9 25. But even though Deloitte knew that disclosure was required if it was 10 reasonably possible that the CRA would invalidate Silver Wheaton Canada's tax 11 position, and even though Deloitte actually knew that it was at least reasonably 12 possible that it would do so, Silver Wheaton's 2011 financial statements did not 13 disclose either that it was more likely than not or that there was a reasonable 14 possibility that the CRA would invalidate Silver Wheaton's tax position, resulting in 15 an enormous tax reassessment and a much less profitable enterprise.

16 26. Thus, even though Deloitte knew that it was more likely than not, or that 17 there was a reasonable possibility, that the CRA would invalidate Silver Wheaton's 18 tax position, it nonetheless certified to investors that Silver Wheaton's 2011 financial 19 statements were materially accurate.

10 35. On July 6, 2015, Silver Wheaton Canada issued a press release, 11 announcing that the CRA had reassessed Silver Wheaton Canada's 2005-2010
12 income (the "Reassessment"). The Reassessment determined that the transfer pricing 13 provisions of the Income Tax Act (Canada) ("Tax Act") should be applied to 14 recharacterize Silver Wheaton Caymans income as Silver Wheaton Canada income.
15 As a result, Silver Wheaton Canada's taxable income increased by approximately 16 CDN$715 million for the Tax Period, resulting in more than CDN$261 million in 17 additional taxes and penalties assessed against Silver Wheaton Canada.

24 that the CRA had determined that Silver Wheaton's transfer pricing tax position 25 violated Canadian tax laws had reduced Silver Wheaton's net asset value by 30-40%.

12 DELOITTE'S PRODUCTION

13 73. In March 2017, Judge McDermott issued letters rogatory seeking the 14 assistance of the British Columbia Supreme Court in compelling production of 15 documents from Deloitte and PwC.

16 74. Deloitte opposed Plaintiffs' request before the British Columbia 17 Supreme Court. Following a contested hearing, The Hon. Justice Milman issued an 18 Order, dated August 17, 2017, requiring Deloitte to produce documents (the "BC 19 Order"):

20 1. All audit working papers and audit permanent files subject to claims 21 of privilege, concerning Deloitte's audit of Silver Wheaton's financial 22 statements for the years ended December 31, 2009 through 2015 that 23 touch on, are related to, or concern, in any respect Silver Wheaton's 24 transfer pricing tax position on Silver Wheaton (Cayman), contingent tax 25 liability related to transfer pricing or recharacterization concerning 26 Silver Wheaton (Cayman) or the CRA Audit including but not limited 27 to: 28

- a. Estimates, costs projections or reserves for legal or other costs in connection therewith;
- b. Silver Wheaton's compliance with ASC 740, IAS 12 IAS 37, and FASB 5 in connection therewith;
- c. Risk analysis, damages, calculations, loss reserves fines penalties taxes, or withholding of any distributions to shareholders in connection therewith;
- d. Compliance with Sections 247 and 251 of the Income Tax Act in connection with Silver Wheaton (Cayman) for the 2005-2010 tax year;
- e. All management representations in connection with the above.

75. The BC Order contemplated that Deloitte would complete production on or before October 6, 2017.

76. Deloitte refused to conduct a wholesale review of particular audit files in response to the BC Order. Instead, Deloitte represented that it would only employ search terms to narrow the documents subject to review.

77. Deloitte made a production on October 6, 2017, purportedly in complete satisfaction of the BC Order.

78. Upon review, Plaintiffs determined that Deloitte's October 6, 2017 production excluded critical documents. Plaintiffs further determined that it was quite easy to identify the missing but highly relevant subsections in the audit working papers that Deloitte should review for production.

79. Accordingly, on October 31, 2017, Plaintiffs contacted Deloitte, seeking to have Deloitte review specified subsections of its audit working papers, as well as use additional search terms for relevant documents.

80. Deloitte produced more relevant documents on January 5, 2018.

1 81. Deloitte represented that, in response to the BC Order, it (among other 2 things) reviewed relevant sections of its audit working papers and produced 3 responsive documents.

4 82. When this Second Amended Complaint refers to the absence of 5 documents from Deloitte's working papers, it is because the documents were not 6 produced in either Deloitte's October 6, 2017, or January 5, 2018 productions.

7 DEFENDANTS' MISCONDUCT

8 Canadian Transfer Pricing Rules Related to Income Taxes

9 (a) Transfer Pricing Rules in Canada

10 83. Corporations that reside in Canada for the purposes of the Income Tax 11 Act (Canada)² (the "Tax Act") are subject to tax on their worldwide income from all 12 sources.³

13 84. When computing taxable income, Canadian tax law generally does not 14 look to the economic substance of a transaction to determine its tax treatment.⁴

15 85. Nevertheless, the Canadian government recognized that parties not 16 dealing with one another at "arm's length" will frequently be motivated to structure 17 their dealings in a manner that deviates from what would prevail in the open market, 18 in an effort to reduce the aggregate amount of income tax payable. In particular, 19 absent statutory restrictions, parties may seek to structure transactions that, while 20 legally effective, are premised on pricing that is not consistent with the pricing that 21 would have been agreed to by parties dealing with one another at arm's length.

22 86. In light of such concerns, the government enacted a detailed set of 23 transfer pricing provisions to ensure that, for tax purposes, the amounts included in 24 the income of a Canadian taxpayer in respect of transactions entered into with non-25 resident persons with which the taxpayer does not deal at arm's length ("Related

1 Non-Residents”) accurately reflect the pricing that would have been established if the 2 transactions had instead been undertaken by independent parties at arm’s length (the 3 “Transfer Pricing Rules”).

4 (b) *The Transfer Pricing Rules – First Principles

5 87. From a tax perspective, the price paid for property, services, commercial 6 opportunities, the assumption of risk, or any other right or advantage (collectively, 7 “Property”) is of great significance. Most notably, a person that sells Property is 8 generally required to include the amount receivable in exchange for the Property 9 when computing its taxable income.⁵

10 88. When a transaction is undertaken by parties that do not deal with one 11 another at “arm’s length,” an incentive may arise to price the transaction in a manner 12 that artificially increases or decreases the price payable for Property. For example, if 13 the seller of Property is subject to high income tax rates, or the purchaser will derive 14 limited benefit from being able to claim a tax deduction in respect of the amount paid 15 for the Property, the parties may attempt to minimize the operative transfer price.

16 89. The Transfer Pricing Rules seek to eliminate the opportunity for multi-17 national enterprises to obtain a tax advantage by adopting intra-group pricing 18 strategies that shift income to a related party that is resident in a low tax jurisdiction.

19 90. The Transfer Pricing Rules apply to adjust the amounts paid by one 20 party for Property provided by another party with which it does not deal at “arm’s 21 length” to reflect market prices.

22 91. Statutory provisions substantively similar to the Transfer Pricing Rules 23 have been widely adopted by most developed nations. The Transfer Pricing Rules are 24 premised on the “arm’s length principle” (the “Arm’s Length Principle”), which has 25 been endorsed by the member states of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation

28 ⁵ Tax Act, supra note 2 at Part I, Division B.

1 and Development (the “OECD”), including Canada,⁶ as the international standard to 2 be applied when determining transfer prices for tax purposes.

3 92. The Arm’s Length Principle provides that where:

4 conditions are made or imposed between... two enterprises in their 5 commercial or financial relations which differ from those which would 6 be made between independent enterprises, then any profits which would, 7 but for those conditions, have accrued to one of the enterprises, but, by 8 reason of those conditions, have not so accrued, may be included in the 9 profits of that enterprise and taxed accordingly.⁷

10 (c) The Transfer Pricing Rules – Statutory Framework

11 93. The Transfer Pricing Rules took effect in 1988 and are found principally 12 in section 247 of the Tax Act.

13 94. The range of transactions that may fall within the ambit of the Transfer 14 Pricing Rules is extremely broad. The sale of goods and services, the licensing of 15 intellectual property, the provision of commercial opportunities, the assignment of 16 existing contractual rights, and a host of different types of lending, hedging, 17 insurance, and derivative arrangements are all potentially subject to the Transfer 18 Pricing Rules.

19 95. The Transfer Pricing Rules apply in respect of transactions between 20 parties that do not deal with one another at “arm’s length.”⁸ The circumstances under 21 which persons are considered not to be dealing with one another at “arm’s length” are 22 set out in section 251 of the Tax Act.

23 96. Both “related persons” and persons that factually do not deal with one 24 another at arm’s length are defined by statute as not dealing with one another at 1 “arm’s length.”⁹ The Tax Act describes the categories of persons that are deemed to 2 be “related persons,”¹⁰ including a corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, and 3 two corporations that are controlled by the same person or group of persons.¹¹

4 (i) Charging Provision

5 97. Subsection 247(2) of the Tax Act is the main charging provision in the 6 Transfer Pricing Rules. Subsection 247(2) provides that where a taxpayer and a 7 Related Non Resident are participants in a transaction or a series of transactions (a 8 “Related Party Transaction”) and 9 (a) the terms or conditions made or imposed between any of the participants in 10 respect of the transaction or series differ from those that would have been made 11 between persons dealing at arm’s length, or

13 ⁹ The Canadian courts have frequently been called upon to consider when parties may 14 factually be considered not to deal with one another at arm’s length. During the 15 “Period” (as defined herein), the Canada Revenue Agency summarized the applicable 16 jurisprudence in this regard by stating:

17 The following criteria have generally been used by the courts in 18 determining whether parties to a transaction are not dealing at “arm’s length”:

- 19 • was there a common mind which directs the bargaining for both 20 parties to a transaction; 21 • were the parties to a transaction acting in concert without 22 separate interests; and
• was there “de facto” control.

23 [M.N.R., Interpretation Bulletin IT-419R2 “Meaning of Arm’s Length” 24 (8 June 2004) at ¶23.]

25 ¹⁰ Tax Act, supra note 2 at §251(2).

26 ¹¹ In this context, “control” is defined as de jure control, which typically is considered 27 to arise in a corporate context where a person has the right to exercise “effective 28 control” over the affairs of the corporation. Effective control of a corporation generally is considered to exist where a person enjoys the right to elect a majority of the directors of the corporation.

1 (b) the transaction or series

2 (i) would not have been entered into between persons dealing at 3 arm's length, and

4 (ii) can reasonably be considered not to have been entered into 5 primarily for bona fide purposes other than to obtain a tax benefit,¹²

6 any amounts that, but for the transfer pricing rules and certain other anti-avoidance 7 provisions, would be determined for the purposes of the Tax Act in respect of the 8 taxpayer are to be adjusted to equal the amounts that would have been determined if,

9 (c) where only paragraph (a) applies, the terms and conditions made or 10 imposed between the participants in respect of the transaction or series had been 11 those that would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length, or 12 (d) where paragraph (b) applies, the transaction or series is recharacterized 13 to reflect the transaction or series that would have been entered into between persons 14 dealing at arm's length, under terms and conditions that would have been made 15 between persons dealing at arm's length.

16 98. In effect, the Transfer Pricing Rules may, for tax purposes, adjust the 17 prices agreed to by a Canadian taxpayer and a Related Non-Resident in two different 18 ways. First, if the subject transaction is of the type that would otherwise have 19 occurred in the market between persons dealing at arm's length, the pricing of the 20 transaction is adjusted to reflect the pricing that would have arisen in an arm's length 21 context. Second, if the transaction is not the type that would have been entered into 22 between persons dealing at arm's length, and it can reasonably be considered not to 23 have been entered into primarily for bona fide purposes other than to obtain a tax 24 advantage, the pricing of the transaction is adjusted to reflect the pricing that would 25 have been set in a replacement transaction that would have been entered into between

27 _____
28 ¹² For these purposes, a "tax benefit" is defined as including a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amounts payable under the Tax Act.

1 persons dealing at arm's length, under terms and conditions that would have been 2 agreeable to arm's length parties.

3 99. If the Canadian tax authority, the CRA, believes that a taxpayer has 4 contravened the Transfer Pricing Rules (i.e., the transactions between the taxpayer 5 and the Related Non-Resident do not reflect arm's length transfer prices), the CRA 6 may (i) recompute the taxable income of the taxpayer on the basis of the arm's length 7 transfer prices that the CRA believes would have applied to the subject transactions, 8 and (ii) reassess the income tax payable by the taxpayer by applying the applicable 9 income tax rate to the adjusted taxable income of the taxpayer.¹³ Where a taxpayer is 10 assessed for additional income tax payable, late filing or other penalties may also be 11 assessed.¹⁴

12 100. The CRA ordinarily need not obtain approval from any internal 13 committees in order to reassess taxes. However, if the CRA wishes to recharacterize 14 transactions, it must obtain the approval of the Transfer Pricing Review Committee 15 (the "Review Committee"). The CRA also requires the Review Committee's approval 16 merely to explore recharacterization.

17 101. The CRA obtains the Review Committee's authorization to 18 recharacterize transactions through a recharacterization referral, with notice to, and 19 with an opportunity to comment by, the taxpayer.

20 (ii) Penalty Provision

21 102. In addition to potentially increasing the taxable income arising from a 22 Related Party Transaction, the application of the Transfer Pricing Rules can also 23 result in the assessment of a special transfer pricing penalty.¹⁵

24 103. A taxpayer may be liable for the special transfer pricing penalty where 25 the relevant transfer pricing adjustment exceeds a prescribed threshold.¹⁶ If

26 _____
27 ¹³ Tax Act, supra note 2 at §152 and §247(11).

28 ¹⁴ See, for example, id. at §162-163.

¹⁵ Id. at §247(3).

1 applicable, the special transfer pricing penalty is generally equal to 10% of the sum of 2 (i) the relevant transfer pricing adjustments, minus (ii) the total of all transfer pricing 3 adjustments that relate to transactions for which the taxpayer has made “reasonable 4 efforts to determine [and use] arm’s length transfer prices.”

5 104. In determining whether a taxpayer has made reasonable efforts to 6 determine and use arm’s length transfer prices, the CRA has stated that it will 7 consider whether the taxpayer took all reasonable steps to ensure that its transfer 8 prices conformed with the Arm’s Length Principle.¹⁷ However, a Canadian taxpayer 9 will be deemed not to have made reasonable efforts to determine and use arm’s length 10 transfer prices if it does not make or obtain “contemporaneous documentation” in 11 respect of the transaction on or before the “documentation-due date”¹⁸ for the taxation 12 year in which the transaction occurred.¹⁹

13 105. The Transfer Pricing Rules define “contemporaneous documentation” as 14 records or documents that provide a description that is complete and accurate in all 15 material respects of

- 16 (i) the property or services to which the transaction relates,
- 17 (ii) the terms and conditions of the transaction and their relationship, 18 if any, to the terms and conditions of each other transaction entered into 19 between the participants in the transaction,
- 20 (iii) the identity of the participants in the transaction and their 21 relationship to each other at the time the transaction was entered into,

23 ¹⁶ The Transfer Pricing Rules generally provide that a taxpayer may only be subject 24 to the special transfer pricing penalty if the “net adjustment” from the application of 25 the Transfer Pricing Rules is greater than the lesser of (i) CDN$5 million, and (ii) 10% of the Canadian taxpayer’s prescribed gross revenue for the year.

26 ¹⁷ Information Circular 87-2R, supra note 6 at ¶179.

27 ¹⁸ The “documentation-due date” is typically the date on which the Canadian taxpayer is required to file its income tax return.

28 ¹⁹ Tax Act, supra note 2 at §247(4).

1 (iv) the functions performed, the property used or contributed and the 2 risks assumed in respect of the transaction by the participants in the 3 transaction,

4 (v) the data and methods considered and the analysis performed to 5 determine the transfer prices in respect of the transaction, and 6 (vi) the assumptions, strategies and policies, if any, that influenced the 7 determination of the appropriate transfer prices in respect of the 8 transaction.

9 (d) *Application of the Transfer Pricing Rules

10 106. The Transfer Pricing Rules require a Canadian taxpayer transacting with 11 a Related Non-Resident to (i) fully and accurately define the Property being provided 12 by one party to another, and (ii) ascertain and adopt the price that would be paid for 13 such Property by parties dealing with one another at arm's length.

14 107. The CRA has published a large number of statements that outline the 15 agency's interpretation of section 247 of the Tax Act.

16 108. In September 1999, the CRA issued a detailed Information Circular that 17 set out its views on the application of section 247 and the related transfer pricing 18 compliance obligations of Canadian taxpayers (the "CRA Circular").²⁰ The CRA 19 Circular contains an extensive discussion of the attributes of each property, service or 20 advantage provided by a Canadian taxpayer to a Related Non-Resident that need to 21 be considered when assessing the applicable arm's length transfer price of such 22 Property.

23 109. The CRA Circular states that, in the absence of independent comparable 24 transactions from which arm's length transfer prices may be derived, the

26 ²⁰ Information Circular 87-2R, supra note 6. The CRA Memorandum contains a 27 broad cross-referencing paragraph that reads "The OECD Guidelines should be 28 consulted for a more detailed discussion of the principles contained in Parts 2 to 6 of this circular." Parts 2 to 6 contain the core sections of the CRA Circular.

1 determination of an arm's length transfer price in respect of a transaction generally 2 requires that each of the functions performed, the assets used or applied, and the risks 3 assumed by each party be fully delineated and quantified. The relevance of such 4 criteria is affirmed by the express wording of section 247 of the Tax Act, which 5 stipulates that the contemporaneous documentation maintained by a taxpayer must 6 provide a complete and accurate description of "the functions performed, the property 7 used or contributed and the risks assumed, in respect of the transaction, by the 8 participants in the transaction."

9 110. The CRA Circular incorporates by reference many of the interpretive 10 principles expressed by the OECD in its Transfer Pricing Guidelines for 11 Multinational Enterprises and Tax Administrations (the "OECD Guidelines").²¹
12 OECD Guidelines provide that compensation between independent enterprises 13 "usually will reflect the functions that each enterprise performs (taking into account 14 assets used and risks assumed)."²² In this regard, the OECD Guidelines direct that 15 the "functional analysis [to be performed as part of a transfer pricing analysis] is 16 incomplete unless the material risks assumed by each party have been considered 17 since the assumption or allocation of risks would influence the conditions of 18 transactions between the associated enterprises."²³ In considering the allocation of 19 risk, the OECD Guidelines also caution that it is necessary to consider whether the 20 purported allocation of risk by the parties to a transaction is consistent with the 21 economic substance of the transaction.²⁴

22 (e) Calculating Arm's Length Prices

23 111. The CRA Circular recognizes 5 different methods of determining an 24 appropriate transfer price, of which three are relevant here: the cost plus method (the 26 ²¹ OECD Guidelines, supra note 7.

27 ²² Id. at ¶1.20.

28 ²³ Id. at ¶1.23.

²⁴ Id. at ¶1.26.

1 “cost plus method”), the residual profit split method (the “profit split method”), and 2 the transactional net margin method (the “net margin method”). CRA Circular, ¶48.

3 112. Each of the methods aims to determine appropriate transfer prices by 4 reference to prices paid by similar businesses in a truly arm’s length relationship.
5 There are multiple methods because the CRA Circular recognizes that each of the 6 methods may not be appropriate to every kind of business.

7 113. The profit split method attempts to distribute the combined enterprise’s 8 profits between the taxpayer and the non-arm’s length party. In applying the profit 9 split method, the taxpayer begins by segregating the readily identifiable functions of 10 the combined enterprises. CRA Circular, ¶101 (citing manufacturing or distribution 11 as kinds of businesses where it is appropriate to employ the residual profit method).
12 The taxpayer then identifies which of the related parties is responsible for these 13 functions and provides that entity with a profit margin for those functions based on 14 available information from other companies (e.g., the entity that engages in 15 manufacturing might be entitled to a 10% return on manufacturing costs, based on 16 comparables). Id. The residual profits that remain after this step are divided between 17 the two entities based on “any information [] that indicates how arm’s length parties 18 would divide the profit or loss in similar circumstances,” with a focus on the party 19 contributing intangible assets. The taxpayer’s taxable income is then calculated as the 20 sum of income from the segregable functions and the residual profits attributable to 21 the taxpayer. Because in using the residual profit split method the taxpayer analyzes 22 both parties to the transaction, it is referred to as a two-sided method.

23 114. In contrast, the cost plus and net margin methods are one-sided methods, 24 because they only focus on the activities of one of the parties. In both methods, the 25 taxpayer begins by identifying which of the two parties to the transaction is the least 26 complex. Application of the methods then focuses entirely on the least complex party.

27 115. After identifying the least complex party, the taxpayer then identifies the 28 functions performed by that least complex party. Having identified the functions, the

1 taxpayer determines the costs of providing the functions. The taxpayer then includes 2 as taxable income of the Canadian party both the costs identified and an appropriate 3 gross (under the cost plus method) or net (under the net margin method) margin, as 4 determined by reference to comparable companies.

5 116. Importantly, the cost plus and net margin methods are only appropriate 6 where the least complex party contributes no non-routine intangibles. CRA Circular, 7 ¶¶76-89, 106-119. This category includes know-how, customer lists and data, and 8 technical data. It also includes items that convey reputation, such as trademarks.
9 OECD Guidelines, Chapter VI, ¶6.2. “Know-how” in turn is broadly defined as “all 10 the undivulged technical information, whether capable of being patented or not, that 11 is necessary for the industrial reproduction of a product or process, directly and under 12 the same conditions.” Id. at ¶6.5.

13 117. Because the markup can only be determined with reference to persons 14 performing similar functions, the cost plus and net margin methods require that the 15 taxpayer identify such parties (i.e., comparables). CRA Circular, ¶¶77, 107.

16 Silver Wheaton’s Business and Control of Silver Wheaton Caymans

17 118. Silver Wheaton is the world’s first, and largest, precious metals 18 streaming company.

19 119. A precious metals streaming agreement is essentially an option to 20 purchase the future output of a mine. When it enters into a precious metals streaming 21 agreement, Silver Wheaton makes a large up-front payment and in turn receives the 22 right to buy a portion of the mine’s future silver output for a low price. That price is 23 calculated as the average global cost of silver production. Silver Wheaton then earns 24 profits by buying silver at the low price and reselling it to brokers at the market price.
25 Silver Wheaton receives advance notice of silver deliveries, and sells the silver before 26 delivery, such that it never takes title to it except for a moment, if at all, and never 27 takes physical possession of the silver.

1 120. Silver Wheaton's principal operations are conducted by Silver Wheaton
2 Corp., a Canadian company operating out of Vancouver, Canada. Silver Wheaton 3 also holds a subsidiary based in the Caymans Islands, Silver Wheaton Caymans. The 4 Caymans Islands do not impose taxes on income companies earn outside of the 5 Cayman Islands.

6 121. Nearly all of Silver Wheaton's activities are conducted by Silver 7 Wheaton Canada. Silver Wheaton Canada identifies potential streaming opportunities 8 throughout the world, and then analyzes them for profitability using complex models 9 that consider silver price, various discount rates, the cost of capital, and numerous 10 other factors. Silver Wheaton Canada also analyzes whether these transactions are 11 sufficiently safe from political, geological, and operational risks, among others, 12 requiring the well-seasoned judgment of professionals in a variety of fields, including 13 geology, mining engineering, the mining business, and finance.²⁵ Silver Wheaton 14 Canada personnel then approach the mines and negotiate complicated streaming 15 agreements, relying on the skills and credibility they have built up over decades-long 16 careers as business persons in Vancouver and in the mining industry. Silver Wheaton 17 Canada negotiates for and secures hundreds of millions of dollars of financing. Silver 18 Wheaton Canada's board of directors considers, in lengthy meetings, each of these 19 agreements, asking pointed questions, weighing the advice of financial and other 20 professionals retained to advise it, and occasionally changing the terms of 21 agreements. [REDACTED]

23 ²⁵ Silver Wheaton Canada has rejected a host of potential Streaming Agreements for a 24 variety of reasons, including: political risk (San Cristobal); poor operating partner 25 (Aranzazu); high permitting risk (Revett); economic viability of the mine (Atacocha); 26 concerns regarding geological interpretation, resource estimates, metallurgy or mine 27 planning (Wolverine); and low exploration potential (El Mochito). Deposition of filed with the Tax Court of Canada on August 4, 2017, Response to Undertaking

17 Responsibilities

18 127. In respect of each taxation year during the Period, all substantive 19 strategic, managerial and operational direction relating to the activities of Silver 20 Wheaton Caymans was provided by Silver Wheaton Canada. The Annual 21 Information Forms ("AIF")²⁷ filed by Silver Wheaton Canada during the Period 22 indicated that Silver Wheaton had 18 employees by 2008 (as per the AIF for the 23 period ending December 31, 2007) and later 24 employees (as per the AIF for the 24 period ending December 31, 2010). Of these employees, at most six were Silver

12 (c) Silver Wheaton Canada Conducted Substantially All of Silver Wheaton 13 Caymans's Activities

14 175. The 2006 Annual Report of Silver Wheaton Canada emphasized the 15 significance of the "Silver Wheaton brand name" to the business operations of the 16 Silver Wheaton corporate group during the Period. There is no evidence to indicate 17 that any reputational or brand-related intellectual property or any material, 18 sophisticated know-how that was utilized by Silver Wheaton Caymans during the 19 Period was internally developed by Silver Wheaton Caymans, rather than obtained 20 from Silver Wheaton Canada.

21 176. All streaming contracts to which Silver Wheaton Caymans was a party 22 were identified, originated, and secured by the efforts of Silver Wheaton Canada. All 23 commercial leads, introductions, opportunities and agreements were pursued and 24 executed by, or at the direction of, Silver Wheaton Canada and were provided to 25 Silver Wheaton Caymans without consideration.

26 177. In addition to performing all material commercial functions for Silver 27 Wheaton Caymans, Silver Wheaton Canada also assumed all material financial and 28 contractual risks on behalf of Silver Wheaton Caymans during the Period, whether

1 through the funding of agreements to which Silver Wheaton Caymans was a party in 2 respect of future streaming rights, or through guarantees under agreements to which 3 Silver Wheaton Caymans was a party. FE1 states that Silver Wheaton Caymans
4 functioned as a conduit for large amounts of money passing from the Silver Wheaton 5 corporate office in Vancouver to the mines through Silver Wheaton Caymans in one 6 direction and money from silver sales flowing back through Silver Wheaton Caymans 7 to Silver Wheaton Canada.

8 178. FE1 stated that Silver Wheaton Caymans kept a very small percentage of 9 the revenue and income it earned in its bank accounts, passing most of it to the Silver 10 Wheaton corporate office accounts.

11 179. Beginning in March 2008 when the Silver Wheaton Caymans Islands 12 office opened, FE1 began to wire transfer large sums of money from the Silver 13 Wheaton Caymans office's revenue accounts to Silver Wheaton corporate 14 headquarters in Vancouver.

10 184. Silver Wheaton Canada also guaranteed certain obligations of Silver 11 Wheaton Caymans, such as the Silver Purchase Agreement among Silver Wheaton 12 Canada, Silver Wheaton Caymans, Barrick International Bank Corp., and Barrick 13 Gold Corporation, dated September 8, 2009. In the absence of any independent 14 assets, any default by Silver Wheaton Caymans in respect of such guaranteed 15 obligations would also be borne by Silver Wheaton Canada.

16 185. Ultimately, no third party would have contracted independently with 17 Silver Wheaton Caymans, absent its wholly-owned relationship with Silver Wheaton 18 Canada. Absent the efforts and involvement of Silver Wheaton Canada in securing 19 and funding streaming agreements and managing and directing the activities that 20 were undertaken in the name of Silver Wheaton Caymans, Silver Wheaton Caymans 21 would have had no operations or revenue during the Period.

22 Silver Wheaton Consciously Violated Transfer Pricing Rules

23 (a) Silver Wheaton Was Aware it Violated Transfer Pricing Rules

24 186. Throughout the Period:

- 25 (i) the Transfer Pricing Rules were well established, 26 (ii) by virtue of (A) the detailed publications issued by the CRA prior to, and 27 during, the Period, including the CRA Circular, ten separate CRA Transfer Pricing 28 Memoranda, and additional materials posted on the CRA's website, and (B) frequent

1 seminars and publications on transfer pricing issues released by leading industry 2 groups in Canada, including the Canadian Tax Foundation, the interpretation and 3 assessment practices of the CRA with respect to the application of the Transfer 4 Pricing Rules were well-known to all commercial enterprises in Canada, including 5 Defendants, and

6 (iii) the T106 transfer pricing information returns that Canadian corporations 7 were obligated to file with the CRA in respect of any transaction with a Related Non-8 Resident (as described in more detail below) clearly demanded the provision of 9 detailed transfer pricing information in respect of the transaction.

10 187. Silver Wheaton Canada was repeatedly made aware of its reporting and 11 compliance obligations under the Transfer Pricing Rules in the course of completing 12 its annual tax filings. The second page of the general corporation income tax return 13 that Silver Wheaton Canada was required to file each year posed the express question 14 whether Silver Wheaton Canada “had any non-arm’s length transactions with a non-15 resident” during the year. If the answer was “yes,” Silver Wheaton Canada was 16 directed to file a special T106 Transfer Pricing Information Return (a “T106 Return”) 17 with the CRA.

18 188. The circumstances under which a taxpayer is required to file a T106 19 Return are set out in section 233.1 of the Tax Act. Subsection 233.1(2) of the Tax 20 Act provides that a person who is resident in Canada (a “Reporting Person”) is 21 required to file an information return (i.e., a T106 Return) in respect of each non-22 resident person with whom the Reporting Person does not deal at arm’s length in 23 respect of all “reportable transactions” with the non-resident in a year. Subsection 24 233.1(1) of the Tax Act generally defines a “reportable transaction” as a transaction 25 or series of transactions that relate in any manner whatever to a business carried on 26 by a Reporting Person in a taxation year.²⁸ Except for a de minimis exception that

27 _____
28 ²⁸ For these purposes, a “transaction” is defined expansively as including an arrangement or event.

1 applies where the total fair market value of all property or services relating to all
2 “reportable transactions” of a Reporting Person (and certain other non-arm’s length 3 persons) for a particular taxation year does not exceed CDN$1 million, the obligation 4 to file a T106 Return is generally absolute.

5 189. The T106 Return expressly requires a Canadian taxpayer to report
6 arrangements involving the provision of all types of Property, including intangible 7 property, to a Related Non-Resident, regardless of whether consideration is payable 8 by the non-resident for such property. The T106 Return also requires taxpayers to 9 indicate whether they have prepared or obtained contemporaneous documentation in 10 respect of all transactions with a Related Non-Resident in respect of each year.

11 190. A knowledgeable authorized officer of Silver Wheaton Canada was 12 required to review, ensure the accuracy of, and sign the T106 Return.

13 191. The CRA’s Audit Manual underscores the significance that the CRA 14 placed on the T106 Return during the Period. The Audit Manual indicated that the 15 T106 Return “was introduced in 1988 to combat abuses in transfer pricing and 16 provide the CRA with information on non-arm’s length transactions with non-17 residents.” The Audit Manual also contained a special “grid” of “tax havens,”²⁹ and 18 the Audit Manual expressly stipulated that “the T106 return, as well as its related 19 database, are key audit screening and planning tools for tax haven issues.”

20 192. Both Deloitte and PwC specifically called Silver Wheaton’s attention to 21 the requirements to maintain contemporaneous documentation, and Silver Wheaton 22 falsely claimed to have done so.

17 (b) Silver Wheaton Canada Faced Daunting Odds in the CRA Audit

18 200. If the commercial activities of Silver Wheaton Canada in respect of the 19 Period were audited by the CRA as they related to the interactions between Silver 20 Wheaton Canada and Silver Wheaton Caymans, there was no reasonable basis to 21 believe that the CRA would not seek to (i) ascribe arm's length transfer prices to the 22 Property provided by Silver Wheaton Canada to Silver Wheaton Caymans during the 23 Period, (ii) include such additional revenue amounts in the computation of the taxable 24 income of Silver Wheaton Canada in respect of the relevant taxation years, and (iii) 25 reassess Silver Wheaton Canada for additional income tax payable, computed on the 26 basis of the increased taxable income of Silver Wheaton Canada.

27 201. In proceedings before the Tax Court of Canada, the taxpayer generally 28 bears the burden of "demolishing" each of the factual assumptions made by the

1 Minister of National Revenue (Canada) in support of a reassessment.³⁰ There is no
2 material basis upon which Silver Wheaton Canada could successfully establish that a 3 person dealing at arm's length with Silver Wheaton Caymans would have been 4 willing to provide the Property provided by Silver Wheaton Canada to Silver 5 Wheaton Caymans during the Period for nominal consideration.

6 202. Accordingly, it was readily apparent at all material times that it was 7 clearly more likely than not, and indeed nearly certain, that, if Silver Wheaton 8 Canada was subject to a comprehensive tax audit by the CRA, (i) the income tax 9 payable by Silver Wheaton Canada would be reassessed on the basis of an increased 10 level of taxable income that included additional revenue from the provision of the 11 Property to Silver Wheaton Caymans, computed on the basis of arm's length transfer 12 prices, and (ii) any attempt to appeal any such reassessments to the Canadian courts 13 would not be entirely successful.

14 203. The assessment practices of the CRA during the Period and during the 15 Class Period were consistent with the statements made by the agency in its external 16 publications. There was information in the market in Canada, obvious and known to 17 Silver Wheaton Canada senior officers beginning in 2009, that the CRA was 18 prioritizing audits of Canadian companies with large foreign income in low tax 19 jurisdictions, particularly in the natural resources industry. That year saw public 20 announcement of the well-known tax transfer pricing case involving Cameco 21 Corporation ("Cameco"). With basic facts mirroring those here, the CRA issued a 22 sizeable transfer pricing reassessment of Cameco during the Period in a highly 23 publicized case that was principally premised on the assertion that Cameco had failed 24 to adhere to the Transfer Pricing Rules when transacting with a non-resident 25 subsidiary in connection with the purchase and sale of uranium.

28 ³⁰ See, for example, Hickman Motors Ltd. v. The Queen, [1997] 2 S.C.R. 336, 97 D.T.C. 5363.

1 204. In the Cameco case, the CRA undertook an extensive review of the 2 functions performed by Cameco, the risks assumed by Cameco, and the assets used 3 and deployed by Cameco in connection with the subject transactions relative to those 4 of its Swiss subsidiary and asserted, among other things, that all of the material 5 functions and risks associated with the transactions undertaken by the two parties 6 were performed or borne by Cameco. Accordingly, the CRA asserted that all of the 7 profits derived from the activities of Cameco and its Swiss subsidiary should accrue 8 to Cameco and be included in Cameco's income. The CRA founded its 9 reassessments on both the application of the Transfer Pricing Rules, as well as the 10 application of the sham doctrine and subsection 56(2) of the Tax Act.

11 205. The circumstances of the Cameco case and Silver Wheaton Caymans 12 bear broad similarities. In each case, the Canadian corporate parent (i.e., Cameco and 13 Silver Wheaton Canada) provided significant Property to a Related Non-Resident 14 subsidiary (Swiss subsidiary, Silver Wheaton Caymans) at prices that were materially 15 less than the transfer prices that would have been mutually agreeable to parties 16 dealing with one another at arm's length. In each case, the Canadian corporate parent 17 wished to divert business opportunities and expected future profits to an entity 18 situated outside of Canada that would not be directly subject to Canadian income tax 19 filing and payment obligations. In each case, substantive commercial functions of 20 value were performed by the corporate parent for the benefit of the Related Non-21 Resident subsidiary without material compensation.

22 206. Silver Wheaton Canada closely monitored developments in the Cameco 23 case, and understood the import of a ruling against Cameco on its own fortunes vis-à-24 vis the CRA. [REDACTED]

27 [REDACTED]
28 [REDACTED]

1 [REDACTED]
2 [REDACTED]
3 [REDACTED]
4 [REDACTED]
5 207. That Silver Wheaton Canada was an extremely large and profitable 6 entity and the vast majority of its profits were shifted to Silver Wheaton Caymans, 7 which was subject to zero income tax, would have been a red flag for the CRA to 8 initiate a transfer pricing audit, as the CRA had with Cameco. Thus, Defendants 9 knew that Silver Wheaton Canada's tax position vis-à-vis Silver Wheaton Caymans 10 was indefensible and without any reasonable basis and it was probable, possible, and 11 indeed highly likely to result in a future tax assessment for past due income taxes, 12 penalties and interest in material amounts.

219. From 2007 onwards, Silver Wheaton Canada continued to spend huge sums on tax consultants – but the tax consultant was PwC, not Deloitte.

220. Deloitte felt the loss keenly. With its complicated tax issues, Silver Wheaton Canada was an ideal tax client, generating nearly half a million dollars of tax work per year. The vast majority of this work went to PwC, with only a few tens of thousands of dollars thrown to Deloitte:

17 296. Along with Tatarkin, Charpentier “grilled” FE1 and other employees in 18 practice sessions to make sure they were answering questions professionally and in a 19 way that would not raise suspicion.

20 297. “From my experience with other companies, that was not the first time 21 being questioned (by officials), but it was the first time a company had me practice 22 what to say and they told you what they wanted you to say,” FE1 said.

23 298. She recalled that four Canadian government officials set up in the office 24 boardroom and each employee went in for a private interview. After each interview, 25 the Canadian government officials met with Charpentier and Tatarkin to discuss the 26 employee’s answers.

28

1 299. FE1 said the government officials were there to determine if the Cayman 2 Islands office was a separate entity from the Vancouver corporate headquarters and 3 also to review the taxes the company filed.

4 300. “They wanted to confirm that these two companies, Silver Wheaton in 5 Caymans and Silver Wheaton (corporate) was not one operation, that they were two 6 separate entities,” she said. “And that the income they were making was applied 7 correctly on their taxes. That the amount they declared on their taxes was correct.”

8 301. The functional interviews were devastating to Silver Wheaton.

9 302. CRA officials told FE1 “We’re here because we feel Silver Wheaton had 10 not been paying their taxes, and we want to see if you know or you saw anything to 11 help us to confirm this.”

12 303. When the officials asked her directly if she had seen anything that raised
13 red flags in her mind, she said no. But she noted that Tatarkin and Charpentier later 14 expressed displeasure with her that her facial expression had not assured the officials 15 that she was being fully truthful.

3 334. Deloitte was well aware that the risk of misstatement of Silver 4 Wheaton's tax liabilities was one of the most serious audit risks. Yet eager to 5 preserve its relationship, and hired to advocate on Silver Wheaton's behalf before the 6 CRA, Deloitte abandoned its role as auditor and allowed Silver Wheaton to avoid 7 even disclosing the risk that the CRA would invalidate its transfer pricing tax 8 position.

9 335. For each of the 2012, 2013, and 2014 audits, Deloitte provided 10 unqualified audit opinions for Silver Wheaton stating the consolidated financial 11 statements present fairly, in all material respects, the Company's financial position, 12 financial performance, and cash flows.

13 (a) Auditing Standards

14 336. PCAOB auditing standards require auditors to: obtain sufficient 15 evidence to afford a reasonable basis for the opinion on the audited financial 16 statements and document the audit work completed.³⁵

17 337. PCAOB Auditing Standard No. 3 – Audit Documentation states: “Audit 18 documentation must contain sufficient information to enable an experienced auditor, 19 having no previous connection with the engagement: [t]o understand the nature, 20 timing, extent, and results of the procedures performed, evidence obtained, and 21 conclusions reached.” Accordingly, if Deloitte's audit working papers do not record 22 a procedure as having been performed, then the procedure was not performed.

23 338. In addition, PCAOB AU Section 333 Management Representations 24 states: “During an audit, management makes many representations to the auditor, 25 both oral and written, in response to specific inquiries or through the financial 26 statements. Such representations from management are part of the evidential matter

3 (d) If Deloitte Acknowledged That It Was More Likely Than Not That 4 Silver Wheaton's Tax Position Would Not Be Upheld, It Would Have To Withdraw 5 From The Audit

6 390. Glenn Ives and Brad Gordica were Deloitte audit and tax partners, 7 respectively. Ives and Gordica advised Silver Wheaton on its transfer pricing tax 8 structure and the structuring of Silver Wheaton's tax transactions. In particular, 9 beginning in April 2004, Ives and Gordica "provided tax advice [to Silver Wheaton's 10 predecessor] in planning the structure [of Silver Wheaton's first Streaming 11 Agreement]." Charpentier Canada Testimony, pp. 847-855, and Response to 12 Undertakings 270, 271. [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]
15 [REDACTED]

16 391. PCAOB Rule 3522 provides, in relevant part:
17 A registered public accounting firm is not independent of its audit client 18 if the firm, or any affiliate of the firm, during the audit and professional 19 engagement period, provides any non-audit service to the audit client 20 related to marketing, planning, or opining in favor of the tax treatment 21 of, a transaction [if]

22 * * * * *

23 (b) [the] Tax Position Transaction[]- that was initially 24 recommended, directly or indirectly, by the registered public accounting 25 firm and a significant purpose of which is tax avoidance, unless the 26 proposed tax treatment is at least more likely than not to be allowable 27 under applicable tax laws.
28

1 392. The “audit and professional engagement period” is defined to include the 2 time beginning when the auditor signs an initial engagement agreement right up until 3 the auditor resigns. PCAOB Rule 3501(a)(iii).

4 393. Ives and Gordica provided non-audit services opining that the tax 5 treatment of Silver Wheaton Caymans’s income would not be subject to Canadian 6 taxes.

7 394. Beginning 2010, Deloitte provided further non-audit services “related to 8 [] opining in favor of the treatment of [] a transaction,” [REDACTED]

10 395. “A significant purpose” [REDACTED] of Silver 11 Wheaton’s tax structure is tax avoidance. In addition, through Ives and Gordica, 12 Deloitte initially recommended Silver Wheaton adopt its transfer pricing tax 13 structure.

14 396. Accordingly, unless it is more likely than not that Silver Wheaton’s tax 15 position will be upheld, Deloitte is not independent of Silver Wheaton.

16 397. If Deloitte is not independent of Silver Wheaton, it cannot issue an 17 opinion on Silver Wheaton’s financial statements. AU Section 220.01-.02.
18 Accordingly, unless Deloitte finds that it is more likely than not that Silver 19 Wheaton’s tax position will be upheld, then it cannot serve as Silver Wheaton’s 20 auditor.

21 398. Further, in order to meet Rule 3522, Deloitte must “establish, based on 22 an analysis of the pertinent facts and authorities [which analysis is objectively 23 reasonable] that there is a greater than 50-percent likelihood that the tax treatment of 24 the transaction would, if challenged, be upheld.” PCAOB Release No. 2004-014, at

Violations of GAAP Render Financial Statements False and Misleading

399. Generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”) constitutes those standards recognized by the accounting profession as the conventions, rules, and procedures necessary to define accepted accounting practices at a particular time.

400. GAAP are the common set of accounting principles, standards, and procedures that companies in the United States and Canada use to compile their financial statements.

401. SEC and NYSE rules and regulations require that publicly traded companies such as Silver Wheaton include financial statements that comply with GAAP in their annual and quarterly reports filed with the SEC. See Sections 12 and 13 of the Exchange Act; Rule 10-01(d) of Regulation S-X.

402. SEC Rule 4-01(a) of Regulation S-X states that “[f]inancial statements filed with the Commission which are not prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles will be presumed to be misleading or inaccurate.” 17 C.F.R. § 210.4-01(a)(1) (emphasis added).

Accounting Principles Imposed a Duty to Disclose Silver Wheaton ’s Tax Liabilities

403. As a Canadian corporation for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2005 through 2010, Silver Wheaton prepared its financial statements according to Canadian GAAP.

404. During the Class Period, SEC regulations required that all financial statements Silver Wheaton filed with the SEC that were prepared under Canadian GAAP must provide footnotes reconciling any material differences between Canadian and US GAAP.

405. For the fiscal years ended December 31, 2011 through 2014, Silver Wheaton prepared and was required to file with the SEC financial statements prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”).

1 IFRS are accounting principles that are substantially similar to U.S. GAAP and 2 Canadian GAAP.

3 406. Under U.S. GAAP and Canadian GAAP, as well as under IFRS, an 4 uncertain tax position liability is generally defined as a present or possible obligation 5 that arises from past events in which there is uncertainty as to the probability that the 6 obligation will result in an outflow of resources, or uncertainty as to the amount of 7 the outflow.

8 407. As of March 31, 2011, U.S. GAAP (and Canadian GAAP) required that 9 an issuer record the existence of an uncertain tax position liability in the financial 10 statements if that liability was “more likely than not” to be incurred. ASC 740. Silver 11 Wheaton stated in its 2010 Annual Report, at page 71, that it adopted ASC 740 with 12 regards to accounting for uncertainty in income taxes.

13 408. In applying ASC 740 to determine whether a liability must be recorded 14 for its tax position under Transfer Pricing Rules concerning profits earned by Silver 15 Wheaton Caymans, Silver Wheaton was first required to assume that the CRA would 16 audit its transfer pricing position, and then to determine whether it was “more likely 17 than not” (i.e. 51% or higher likelihood”) that Silver Wheaton’s transfer pricing tax 18 position violated the CRA Transfer Pricing Rules, and whether the CRA would assess 19 Silver Wheaton additional income taxes, penalties and interest for the years 2005-20 2010.

21 409. IFRS, IAS 37 and IAS 12, the applicable accounting principles for 22 uncertain tax positions for Silver Wheaton from fiscal 2011 through 2015, is similar 23 to ASC 740. Under IFRS 37 and 12, Silver Wheaton was required to recognize a tax 24 liability for income taxes based on its transfer pricing tax position for shifting income 25 from Silver Wheaton Canada to Silver Wheaton Caymans, if it was “more likely than 26 not” (i.e. 51% or higher likelihood”) that Silver Wheaton’s transfer pricing tax 27 position violated CRA Transfer Pricing Rules and that the CRA would assess Silver 28 Wheaton additional income taxes for the years 2005-2010.

1 410. Even if, hypothetically, Silver Wheaton was not required to recognize 2 and record an uncertain tax position liability as being “more likely than not” (as 3 detailed above), which it was, IFRS 12 and IFRS 37[¶]86, still mandated that Silver 4 Wheaton disclose in the notes to its financial statements the existence of the uncertain
5 tax position liability resulting from its dealings with Silver Wheaton Caymans 6 because the chance of being assessed the income tax was not “remote.” Under 37[¶]86, 7 Silver Wheaton was therefore required to disclose (a) an estimate of the dollar 8 amount of the uncertain tax position liability, (b) an indication of the uncertainties 9 relating to the amount or timing of any outflow; and (c) the possibility of any 10 reimbursement.

11 411. The egregiousness of Silver Wheaton’s tax position, and the probability 12 the CRA would assess additional income taxes when Silver Wheaton was audited, is 13 exemplified by the CRA’s determination that “the transfer pricing provisions of the 14 Act relating to income earned by the Company’s foreign subsidiaries outside of 15 Canada should apply such that the income of Silver Wheaton subject to tax in Canada 16 should be increased by an amount equal to substantially all of the income earned 17 outside of Canada by the Company’s foreign subsidiaries.” [emphasis added].

18 412. Thus, the CRA determined that Silver Wheaton didn’t just make a small 19 mistake in its transfer pricing tax position. The CRA found the entirety of Silver 20 Wheaton’s tax position to be wholly unjustified and unlawful.

21 413. The lack of any reasonable basis for Silver Wheaton’s transfer pricing 22 tax position is further evidenced by the fact that CRA assessed Silver Wheaton a 23 penalty equal to 10% of the income that was unlawfully not declared. This penalty is 24 required to be assessed where the tax payer has not complied with its obligation to 25 file the necessary documentation with its tax returns that the transactions between the 26 Canadian entity and the offshore entity are on arm’s length or fair market value 27 terms.

Materially False And Misleading Statements Issued During the Class Period

414. The Class Period starts on March 30, 2011, when Silver Wheaton filed a Form 40-F for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2010 (the “2010 40-F”) with the SEC, which provided Silver Wheaton’s year-end financial results and position and stated that Silver Wheaton’s internal control over financial reporting was effective as of December 31, 2010. The 2010 40-F was signed by Defendant Barnes. The 2010 40-F contained signed certifications pursuant to the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (“SOX”) by Defendants Barnes and Brown, which stated that the financial information contained in the 2010 40-F was accurate and disclosed any material changes to Silver Wheaton’s internal control over financial reporting.

415. The 2010 40-F stated that “The Company prepares its financial statements in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles which are reconciled to United States generally accepted accounting principles in Note 14 of the audited consolidated financial statements of the Company as of December 31, 2010 and 2009 and for each of the years in the three year period ended December 31, 2010, including the reports of the Independent Registered Chartered Accountants with respect thereto, included as Exhibit 99.2 of this annual report on Form 40-F (the “Audited Financial Statements”).”

416. Exhibit 99.2 of the 2010 40-F contained Silver Wheaton’s financial statements beginning on page 36 with a statement by CEO Barnes and CFO Brown that the financial statements “were prepared by management, which is responsible for the integrity and fairness of the information presented, including the many amounts that must of necessity be based on estimates and judgments. These consolidated financial statements were prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles (“Canadian GAAP”) and include a footnote providing a reconciliation from Canadian GAAP to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (“US GAAP”).

1 417. The financial statements contained balance sheets for fiscal years ended
2 December 31, 2009 and 2010.

3 418. The balance sheets for 2009 and 2010 were false and misleading for 4 omitting to include a then present tax position liability of $207 million (consisting of 5 $150 million of unpaid income tax and $57 million of mandatory penalties, but not
6 including interest). Silver Wheaton's violation of the CRA Transfer Pricing Rules
7 rose from its decision to avoid paying Canadian corporate income tax on $567
8 million of income by unlawfully shifting Silver Wheaton's income to its subsidiary, 9 Silver Wheaton Caymans, located in the Cayman Islands, a jurisdiction without 10 income taxes.

11 419. Under then operative U.S. GAAP, ASC 740, Silver Wheaton was 12 required to recognize and record a tax position liability of $207 million if it was 13 "more likely than not" that its transfer pricing tax position with respect to Silver 14 Wheaton's transactions with Silver Wheaton Caymans, specifically Silver Wheaton's 15 provision of property, services, advantages, and other rights to Silver Wheaton, did 16 not conform to CRA Transfer Pricing Rules and would therefore result in the 17 assessment of additional taxes.

18 420. In addition, the 2010 Form 40-F and exhibits thereto were misleading for 19 failing to disclose the existence of the CRA audit of Silver Wheaton's transfer pricing 20 transactions with Silver Wheaton Caymans and Silver Wheaton's transfer pricing tax 21 position as of the date the Form 40-F was filed with the SEC on March 30, 2011.

22 421. According to FE1, in May 2011, the CRA visited the Caymans and 23 began its audit of its transactions with Silver Wheaton to determine if transfer pricing 24 rules were violated and income tax payable. Prior to arrival of CRA auditors, Silver 25 Wheaton sent a team of internal accountants and auditors to Silver Wheaton 26 Caymans's offices to prepare the staff and office for the audit.

27 422. Defendants were aware of the CRA Audit because they were notified of 28 it by [REDACTED] in October 2009.

1 423. On May 9, August 8, and November 9, 2011, the Company filed Form 6-2 Ks with the SEC attaching its first, second and third quarter results for the periods
3 ending March 31, June 30, and September 30, 2011 respectively (the “2011 Qs”) each 4 of which was signed by Defendant Smallwood. The 2011 Qs each also contained 5 signed certifications on FORM 52-109F2 by Defendants Smallwood and Brown, who 6 both certified that:

7 2. No misrepresentations: Based on my knowledge, having 8 exercised reasonable diligence, the interim filings do not contain any 9 untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact 10 required to be stated or that is necessary to make a statement not 11 misleading in light of the circumstances under which it was made, with 12 respect to the period covered by the interim filings.

13 3. Fair presentation: Based on my knowledge, having exercised 14 reasonable diligence, the interim financial report together with the other 15 financial information included in the interim filings fairly present in all 16 material respects the financial condition, financial performance and cash 17 flows of the issuer, as of the date of and for the periods presented in the 18 interim filings.

19 424. The 2011 Qs were false and misleading for the same reasons that the 20 2010 40-F and exhibits thereto were false and misleading, as described above, i.e., for 21 failing to recognize and record $207 million of income tax position liabilities.

22 425. On March 27, 2012, Silver Wheaton filed a Form 40-F for the fiscal year
23 ended December 31, 2011 (the “2011 40-F”) with the SEC, which provided Silver
24 Wheaton’s year-end financial results and position and stated that Silver Wheaton’s 25 internal control over financial reporting was effective as of December 31, 2011. The 26 2011 40-F was signed by Defendant Smallwood. The 2011 40-F contained signed 27 SOX certifications by Defendants Smallwood and Brown, which stated that the 28

1 financial information contained in the 2011 40-F was accurate and disclosed any 2 material changes to the Company's internal control over financial reporting.

3 426. The 2011 40-F stated that "On January 1, 2011, the Company adopted 4 International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") for financial reporting 5 purposes, using a transition date of January 1, 2010. The Company's audited annual 6 Consolidated Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2011, including 7 2010 required comparative information (the "Audited Financial Statements"), have 8 been prepared in accordance with IFRS, as issued by the International Accounting 9 Standards Board ("IASB")."

10 427. Exhibit 99.2 of the 2011 40-F contained an annual report, with Silver 11 Wheaton's audited financial statements beginning on page 37 with a statement by 12 CEO Smallwood and CFO Brown that: "The accompanying consolidated financial 13 statements of Silver Wheaton Corp. ("Silver Wheaton") were prepared by 14 management, which is responsible for the integrity and fairness of the information 15 presented, including the many amounts that must of necessity be based on estimates 16 and judgments. These consolidated financial statements were prepared in accordance 17 with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") as issued by the 18 International Accounting Standards Board."

20 December 31, 2011 and 2010.

21 429. The balance sheets for 2010 and 2011 were false and misleading for 22 omitting to include a then present tax position liability of $207 million (consisting of 23 $150 million of unpaid income tax and $57 million of mandatory penalties, but not 24 including interest). Silver Wheaton's violation of the CRA Transfer Pricing Rules
25 rose from its decision to avoid paying Canadian corporate income tax on $567
26 million of income by unlawfully shifting Silver Wheaton's income to its subsidiary, 27 Silver Wheaton Caymans, located in the Cayman Islands, a jurisdiction without 28 income taxes.

1 430. Under IFRS 12 and 37, Silver Wheaton was required to recognize and 2 record a tax position liability of $207 million if it was more likely than not that its 3 transfer pricing tax position with respect to Silver Wheaton's transactions with Silver 4 Wheaton Caymans, specifically Silver Wheaton's provision of property, services, 5 advantages, and other rights to Silver Wheaton Caymans, did not conform to CRA 6 Transfer Pricing Rules and would therefore result in the assessment of additional 7 taxes.

8 431. In the alternative, even if the tax position liability was not properly 9 considered to be "more likely than not" under IFRS 12 and 37, and recording a tax 10 position liability was not required (which it was), Silver Wheaton was still obligated 11 to disclose in the footnotes to its 2011 40-F financial statements the existence of a 12 contingent tax position liability in the amount of approximately $207 million for 13 unpaid income tax and penalties. Silver Wheaton did not include any disclosure of 14 the $207 million contingent tax position liability, and therefore its financial 15 statements violated IFRS 12 and 37 and were false and misleading.

16 432. The 2011 40-F also included also included an audit report from Deloitte 17 that provided:³⁸

5 Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of 6 these consolidated financial statements in accordance with International

8 Standards Board, and for such internal control as management 9 determines is necessary to enable the preparation of consolidated 10 financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether 11 due to fraud or error.

12 Auditor's responsibility

13 Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated 14 financial statements based on our audits. We conducted our audits in 15 accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards and the 16 standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United 17 States). Those standards require that we comply with ethical 18 requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable 19 assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements are free 20 from material misstatement.

21 An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about 22 the amounts and disclosures in the consolidated financial statements.
23 The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the 24 assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated 25 financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk 26 assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's 27 preparation and fair presentation of the consolidated financial statements 28 in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the consolidated financial statements.

1 We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained in our audits is 2 sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

11 We have also audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public

14 on the criteria established in Internal Control—Integrated Framework 15 issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway

12 443. On March 31, 2014, Silver Wheaton filed a Form 40-F for the fiscal year
13 ended December 31, 2013 (the “2013 40-F”) with the SEC, which provided Silver
14 Wheaton’s year-end financial results and position and stated that Silver Wheaton’s 15 internal control over financial reporting was effective as of December 31, 2013. The 16 2013 40-F was signed by Defendant Smallwood. The 2013 40-F contained signed 17 SOX certifications by Defendants Smallwood and Brown, which stated that the 18 financial information contained in the 2013 40-F was accurate and disclosed any 19 material changes to Silver Wheaton’s internal control over financial reporting.

20 444. The 2013 40-F stated that the Company’s audited annual consolidated 21 financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2013 had been prepared in 22 accordance with IFRS, as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board.

25 CEO Smallwood and CFO Brown that: “The accompanying consolidated financial

5 December 31, 2013 and 2012.

6 447. The balance sheets for 2012 and 2013 were false and misleading for 7 omitting to include a then present tax position liability of $207 million (consisting of

10 rose from its decision to avoid paying Canadian corporate income tax on $567
11 million of income by unlawfully shifting Silver Wheaton’s income to its subsidiary, 12 Silver Wheaton Caymans, located in the Cayman Islands, a jurisdiction without 13 income taxes.

The Truth Emerges

461. On July 6, 2015, after market close, the Company issued a press release announcing that the CRA proposed to reassess Silver Wheaton under various rules under the Income Tax Act (Canada), and that the CRA takes the position that Silver Wheaton owes $567 million of taxes from the taxation years of 2005 to 2010 from income generated by Silver Wheaton's foreign subsidiaries. The press release stated in relevant part:

VANCOUVER, July 6, 2015 /PRNewSilver Wheatonire/ - Silver Wheaton Corp. ("Silver Wheaton" or the "Company") (SILVER WHEATON) (SILVER WHEATON) announces that it has received a proposal letter dated July 6, 2015 (the "Proposal") from the Canada Revenue Agency (the "CRA") in which the CRA is proposing to reassess Silver Wheaton under various rules contained in the Income Tax Act (Canada).

1 The Proposal outlines CRA's position that the transfer pricing
2 provisions of the Income Tax Act (Canada) relating to income
3 earned by our foreign subsidiaries outside of Canada should apply
4 such that the income of Silver Wheaton subject to tax in Canada 5 should be increased for the 2005 to 2010 taxation years (the 6 "Relevant Taxation Years") by approximately Cdn$715 million (US$567 million). The issuance of the Proposal does not require the Company to pay any amount to the CRA at this time.

7 Management believes that the Company has filed its tax returns and 8 paid applicable taxes in compliance with Canadian tax law. Silver 9 Wheaton intends to vigorously defend its tax filing positions and is now in the process of preparing its response to the Proposal.

10 "We remain confident in our business structure which we believe is 11 consistent with that typically used by Canadian companies, including 12 Canadian streaming companies, that have international operations," 13 said Randy Smallwood, President and Chief Executive Officer of 14 Silver Wheaton.

15 "Generally a company is taxable in Canada on its income earned in 16 Canada, while non-Canadian income earned by foreign subsidiaries is 17 not subject to Canadian income tax. However, with this Proposal, the 18 CRA is seeking to tax, within Canada, streaming income earned 19 outside of Canada by our foreign subsidiaries related to mines located 20 outside of Canada," added Smallwood.

21 Failing a resolution at the Proposal stage, the CRA may proceed to 22 issue notices of reassessment for one or more of the Relevant 23 Taxation Years. If the CRA reassesses Silver Wheaton on the basis 24 outlined in the Proposal, and assuming that Silver Wheaton would be 25 assessed taxes on the foreign subsidiaries' income on the same basis as 26 its Canadian income, Silver Wheaton currently estimates on a 27 preliminary basis that it would be subject to federal and provincial tax 28 of approximately US$150 million in respect of the Relevant Taxation Years. The Proposal also indicates that the CRA is seeking to apply transfer pricing penalties of approximately Cdn$72 million (US$57 million) in respect of the Relevant Taxation Years. The Proposal does not indicate the amount of interest or other penalties in respect of the 1 Relevant Taxation Years. Further, taxation years subsequent to 2010

2 remain open to audit by the CRA.

3 Should Silver Wheaton receive a notice of reassessment from the 4 CRA based upon the Proposal, we intend to file a notice of objection 5 within the required 90 day period provided under the Income Tax Act
6 (Canada). In such a circumstance, Silver Wheaton would be required 7 to pay 50% of the reassessed amount of tax, interest and penalties.
8 This amount, plus interest, would be refunded if the Company were 9 ultimately successful in challenging a reassessment. Any notice of 10 objection would be reviewed by the CRA's Appeals Division. Silver 11 Wheaton also has the right to appeal directly to the Tax Court of 12 Canada 91 days after the date of filing of any notice of objection.

13 The timing for the Proposal process, the CRA appeals process and/or 14 court process (if necessary following the issuance by CRA of any 15 notices of reassessment), is uncertain. Regardless of the timing, Silver 16 Wheaton intends to vigorously defend its tax filing positions.

17 (Emphasis added).

18 462. The next morning, on this news, the Company's share price opened 19 $0.90 lower and continued falling. On July 7, 2015, as a result of the disclosure that 20 Silver Wheaton had been concealing a Canadian tax liability in excess of $207 21 million, Silver Wheaton's share price fell $2.08 per share, or approximately 12%, to 22 close at $15.46 per share.

23 463. In a July 8, 2015 analyst report titled "Coping With 'Guilty Until Proven 24 Innocent,'" Dundee Capital Markets reduced its target price from CDN $33/share to 25 CDN $28/share, estimating that the CRA tax audit could reduce Silver Wheaton's 26 Net Asset Value by 40%.

27 464. In an August 12, 2015 analyst report titled "Q2/15 Results; All Eyes Still 28 On CRA Audit," CIBC reduced its estimate of the Net Asset Value of, and price target for, Silver Wheaton by 30% in response to the CRA audit.

465. An August 13, 2015 a JP Morgan analyst report noted that the "CRA Tax Audit Likely to Overhang the Stock."

1 466. As a result of Defendants' wrongful acts and omissions, and the 2 precipitous decline in the market value of the Company's securities, Plaintiffs and 3 other Class members have suffered significant losses and damages.

4 ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE OF DELIBERATE MISCONDUCT

5 (a) Suspicious Behavior when Canadian Government Officials visited 6 Silver Wheaton Caymans's Offices in May 2011 to Review its Tax Filings and 7 Conduct an Investigation

8 467. Officials from the Canadian government visited Silver Wheaton's 9 Cayman Islands office in May 2012 for a review of its operations and financial 10 records, to determine if the operation was a separate entity from the corporate 11 operation in Vancouver. The Canadian officials were also there to determine if the 12 company filed the correct amount of taxes.

13 468. Prior to the CRA officials' visit, Silver Wheaton sent down a team of 14 internal accountants and auditors to the Silver Wheaton Caymans office to prep the 15 Silver Wheaton Caymans employees on what to say to the CRA officials.

16 469. FE1 said the government officials were there to determine if the Silver 17 Wheaton Caymans office was a separate entity from the Vancouver corporate 18 headquarters and also to review the taxes the company filed, stating "They wanted to 19 confirm that these two companies, Silver Wheaton in Caymans and Silver Wheaton 20 (corporate) was not one operation, that they were two separate entities," she said.
21 "And that the income they were making was applied correctly on their taxes. That the 22 amount they declared on their taxes was correct."

23 470. FE1 suspected that Silver Wheaton Canada might have been dodging 24 Canadian taxes because of her bosses' behavior prior to the visit from Canadian 25 government officials, and that the company might have been hiding something from 26 Canadian tax officials when they visited Silver Wheaton Caymans in May 2011.

27 471. FE1 recalled that four Canadian government officials set up in the office
28 boardroom and each employee went in for a private interview. After each interview,

1 the Canadian officials met with Charpentier and Tatarkin to discuss the employee's 2 answers.

3 472. The officials asked FE1 a series of questions. They told her, "We're 4 here because we feel Silver Wheaton had not been paying their taxes, and we want to 5 see if you know or you saw anything to help us to confirm this."

6 473. When the officials asked her directly if she had seen anything that raised
7 red flags in her mind, she said no. But she noted that Tatarkin and Charpentier later 8 expressed displeasure with her that her facial expression had not assured the officials 9 that she was being fully truthful. FE1 felt uncomfortable being instructed how she 10 should substantively answer each question, stating that "From my experience with 11 other companies, that was not the first time being questioned (by officials), but it was 12 the first time a company had me practice what to say and they told you what 13 they wanted you to say" (emphasis added).

14 474. Carpenter and Tatarkin falsely told Silver Wheaton Caymans employees 15 that the company passed the review (tax audit). FE1 never heard about any problems 16 discovered by Canadian officials.

481. Plaintiffs bring this action as a class action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a) and (b)(3) on behalf of a Class, consisting of all those who purchased or otherwise acquired Silver Wheaton securities during the Class Period (the "Class"); and were damaged upon the revelation of the alleged corrective disclosure. Excluded from the Class are Defendants herein, the officers and directors of Silver Wheaton Canada, Silver Wheaton Caymans, or Deloitte, at all relevant times, members of their immediate families and their legal representatives, heirs, successors or assigns and any entity in which Defendants have or had a controlling interest.

482. The members of the Class are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Throughout the Class Period, Silver Wheaton securities were actively traded on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"). While the exact number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiffs at this time and can be ascertained only through appropriate discovery, Plaintiffs believe that there are hundreds or thousands of members in the proposed Class. Record owners and other members of the Class may be identified from records maintained by Silver Wheaton Canada or its transfer agent and may be notified of the pendency of this action by mail, using the form of notice similar to that customarily used in securities class actions.

483. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Class as all members of the Class are similarly affected by Defendants' wrongful conduct in violation of federal law that is complained of herein.

484. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the Class and have retained counsel competent and experienced in class and securities litigation. Plaintiffs have no interests antagonistic to or in conflict with those of the Class.

1 485. Common questions of law and fact exist as to all members of the Class
2 and predominate over any questions solely affecting individual members of the Class.
3 Among the questions of law and fact common to the Class are:

4 • whether the federal securities laws were violated by Defendants' acts as 5 alleged herein;

6 • whether statements made by Defendants to the investing public during 7 the Class Period misrepresented material facts about the business, operations and 8 management of Silver Wheaton;

9 • whether the Individual Defendants caused Silver Wheaton to issue false 10 and misleading financial statements during the Class Period;

11 • whether Defendants acted knowingly or recklessly in issuing false and 12 misleading financial statements;

13 • whether the prices of Silver Wheaton securities during the Class Period
15 and

16 • whether the members of the Class have sustained damages and, if so, 17 what is the proper measure of damages.

18 486. A class action is superior to all other available methods for the fair and 19 efficient adjudication of this controversy since joinder of all members is 20 impracticable. Furthermore, as the damages suffered by individual Class members 21 may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation make it 22 impossible for members of the Class to redress individually the wrongs done to them.
23 There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as a class action.

24 487. Plaintiffs may rely, in part, upon the presumption of reliance established 25 by the fraud-on-the-market doctrine in that:

26 • Defendants made public misrepresentations or failed to disclose material 27 facts during the Class Period;

28 • the omissions and misrepresentations were material;

- 1 • Silver Wheaton securities are traded in an efficient market;
- 2 • Over 8 billion of Silver Wheaton's shares were traded with moderate to
- 3 heavy volume on the NYSE during the Class Period;
- 4 • Silver Wheaton was covered by multiple analysts;
- 5 • the misrepresentations and omissions alleged would tend to induce a
- 6 reasonable investor to misjudge the value of Silver Wheaton's securities; and
- 7 • Plaintiffs and members of the Class purchased, acquired and/or sold
- 8 Silver Wheaton securities between the time the Defendants failed to disclose or
- 9 misrepresented material facts and the time the true facts were disclosed, without
- 10 knowledge of the omitted or misrepresented facts.

11 488. Based upon the foregoing, Plaintiffs and the members of the Class are 12 entitled to a presumption of reliance upon the integrity of the market.

13 COUNT I

14 Violations of Section 10(b) of The Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 15 Against The Silver Wheaton Defendants

16 489. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege each and every allegation contained above 17 as if fully set forth herein.

18 490. This Count is asserted against the Silver Wheaton Defendants and is 19 based upon Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b), and Rule 10b-5 20 promulgated thereunder by the SEC.

21 491. During the Class Period, the Silver Wheaton Defendants engaged in a 22 plan, scheme, conspiracy and course of conduct, pursuant to which they knowingly or 23 recklessly engaged in acts, transactions, practices and courses of business which 24 operated as a fraud and deceit upon Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class; 25 made various untrue statements of material facts and omitted to state material facts 26 necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under 27 which they were made, not misleading; and employed devices, schemes and artifices 28 to defraud in connection with the purchase and sale of securities. Such scheme was

1 intended to, and, throughout the Class Period, did: (i) deceive the investing public, 2 including Plaintiffs and other Class members, as alleged herein; (ii) artificially inflate 3 and maintain the market price of Silver Wheaton securities; and (iii) caused Plaintiffs 4 and other members of the Class to purchase or otherwise acquire Silver Wheaton 5 securities at artificially inflated prices. In furtherance of this unlawful scheme, plan 6 and course of conduct, the Silver Wheaton Defendants, and each of them, took the 7 actions set forth herein.

8 492. Pursuant to the above plan, scheme, conspiracy and course of conduct, 9 each of the Defendants participated directly or indirectly in the preparation and/or 10 issuance of the annual reports, SEC filings, press releases and other statements and 11 documents described above, including statements made to securities analysts and the 12 media that were designed to influence the market for Silver Wheaton securities. Such 13 reports, filings, releases and statements were materially false and misleading in that 14 they failed to disclose material adverse information and misrepresented the truth 15 about Silver Wheaton's business and financial statements.

16 493. By virtue of their positions at Silver Wheaton, the Silver Wheaton 17 Defendants had actual knowledge of the materially false and misleading statements 18 and material omissions alleged herein and intended thereby to deceive Plaintiffs and 19 the other members of the Class, or, in the alternative, the Silver Wheaton Defendants 20 acted with reckless disregard for the truth in that they failed or refused to ascertain 21 and disclose such facts as would reveal the materially false and misleading nature of 22 the statements made, although such facts were readily available to the Silver Wheaton 23 Defendants. Said acts and omissions of the Silver Wheaton Defendants were 24 committed willfully or with reckless disregard for the truth. In addition, each of the 25 Silver Wheaton defendants knew or recklessly disregarded that material facts were 26 being misrepresented or omitted as described above.

27 494. Information showing that the Silver Wheaton Defendants acted 28 knowingly or with reckless disregard for the truth is peculiarly within the Silver

1 Wheaton Defendants' knowledge and control. As the senior officers of Silver 2 Wheaton, the Individual Defendants had knowledge of the details of Silver 3 Wheaton's internal affairs, including its untenable transfer pricing tax position.

4 495. The Individual Defendants are liable both directly and indirectly for the 5 wrongs complained of herein. Because of their positions of control and authority, the 6 Individual Defendants were able to and did, directly or indirectly, control the content 7 of the statements of Silver Wheaton. As officers and/or directors of a publicly-held 8 company, the Individual Defendants had a duty to disseminate timely, accurate, and 9 truthful information with respect to Silver Wheaton's businesses, operations, and 10 financial condition.

11 496. During the Class Period, Silver Wheaton securities were traded on an 12 active and efficient market. Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class, relying on 13 the materially false and misleading statements described herein, which the Silver 14 Wheaton Defendants made, issued or caused to be disseminated, or relying upon the 15 integrity of the market, purchased or otherwise acquired shares of Silver Wheaton 16 securities at prices artificially inflated by the Silver Wheaton Defendants' wrongful 17 conduct. Had Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class known the truth, they 18 would not have purchased or otherwise acquired said securities, or would not have 19 purchased or otherwise acquired them at the inflated prices that were paid. At the 20 time of the purchases and/or acquisitions by Plaintiffs and the Class, the true value of 21 Silver Wheaton securities was substantially lower than the prices paid by Plaintiffs 22 and the other members of the Class. The market price of Silver Wheaton securities 23 declined sharply upon public disclosure of the facts alleged herein to the injury of 24 Plaintiffs and Class members.

25 497. By reason of the conduct alleged herein, the Silver Wheaton Defendants 26 knowingly or recklessly, directly or indirectly, have violated Section 10(b) of the 27 Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 promulgated thereunder.

28

499. As a direct and proximate result of the Silver Wheaton Defendants' wrongful conduct, Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class suffered damages in connection with their respective purchases, acquisitions and sales of the Company's securities during the Class Period, upon the disclosure that the Company had been disseminating misrepresented financial statements to the investing public.

COUNT II

500. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege each and every allegation contained in the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

502. As officers and/or directors of a publicly owned company, the Individual Defendants had a duty to disseminate accurate and truthful information with respect to Silver Wheaton's business practices, and to correct promptly any public statements issued by Silver Wheaton which had become materially false or misleading.

1 wrongful acts complained of herein. The Individual Defendants therefore, were 2 “controlling persons” of Silver Wheaton within the meaning of Section 20(a) of the 3 Exchange Act. In this capacity, they participated in the unlawful conduct alleged 4 which artificially inflated the market price of Silver Wheaton securities.

5 504. Each of the Individual Defendants, therefore, acted as a controlling 6 person of Silver Wheaton. By reason of their senior management positions and/or 7 being directors of Silver Wheaton, each of the Individual Defendants had the power 8 to direct the actions of, and exercised the same to cause, Silver Wheaton to engage in 9 the unlawful acts and conduct complained of herein. Each of the Individual 10 Defendants exercised control over the general operations of Silver Wheaton and 11 possessed the power to control the specific activities which comprise the primary 12 violations about which Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class complain.

13 505. This action was filed within two years of discovery of the fraud and 14 within five years of each Plaintiff’s and the Class’s purchases of securities giving rise 15 to the cause of action.

16 506. By reason of the above conduct, the Individual Defendants are liable 17 pursuant to Section 20(a) of the Exchange Act for the violations committed by Silver 18 Wheaton.

19 COUNT III

20 Violations of Section 10(b) of The Exchange Act
21 Against Deloitte

22 507. Plaintiffs repeat and reallege each and every allegation contained above
23 as if fully set forth herein.

24 508. This cause of action is asserted against Defendants.

25 509. During the Class Period, Deloitte carried out a plan, scheme and course 26 of conduct which was intended to, and throughout the Class Period, did: (1) deceive 27 the investing public, including Plaintiffs and other Class members, as alleged herein; 28 and (2) cause Plaintiffs and other members of the Class to purchase Silver Wheaton

1 securities at artificially inflated and distorted prices. In furtherance of this unlawful 2 scheme, plan and course of conduct, Deloitte issued knowingly false audit reports 3 during the Class Period. Deloitte's accounting practices were so deficient that the 4 audit amounted to no audit at all, or an egregious refusal to see the obvious, or to 5 investigate the doubtful, or that the accounting judgments which were made were 6 such that no reasonable accountant would have made the same decisions if confronted 7 with the same facts.

8 510. Deloitte, directly and indirectly, by the use, means or instrumentalities of 9 interstate commerce and/or of the mails, engaged and participated in a continuous 10 course of conduct to misrepresent the true financial condition or Silver Wheaton and 11 conceal adverse material information about the business, operations and future 12 prospects of Silver Wheaton as specified herein.

13 511. Deloitte employed devices, schemes and artifices to defraud, while in 14 possession of material adverse non-public information and engaged in acts, practices, 15 and a course of conduct as alleged herein in an effort to assure investors of Silver 16 Wheaton's value, performance and continued substantial growth, as well as the 17 absence of contingent tax liabilities, which included the making of, or the 18 participation in the making of, untrue statements of material facts and omitting to 19 state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made about Silver 20 Wheaton and its business operations and financial condition in light of the 21 circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, as set forth more 22 particularly herein, and engaged in transactions, practices and a course of business 23 that operated as a fraud and deceit upon the purchasers of Silver Wheaton securities 24 during the Class Period.

25 512. Deloitte had actual knowledge of the misrepresentations and omissions 26 of material facts set forth herein, or acted with reckless disregard for the truth in that 27 failed to ascertain and to disclose such facts, even though such facts were available to 28 them. Deloitte's material misrepresentations and/or omissions were done knowingly

1 or recklessly and for the purpose and effect of concealing Silver Wheaton's financial 2 condition from the investing public and supporting the artificially inflated price of its 3 securities. As demonstrated by Deloitte's false and misleading statements during the 4 Class Period, Deloitte, if it did not have actual knowledge of the misrepresentations 5 and omissions alleged, was highly reckless in failing to obtain such knowledge by 6 failing to take steps necessary to discover whether those statements were false or 7 misleading.

8 513. As a result of the dissemination of the materially false and misleading 9 information and failure to disclose material facts, as set forth above, the market price 10 for Silver Wheaton's securities was artificially inflated during the Class Period.

11 514. In ignorance of the fact that market prices of Silver Wheaton's publicly-12 traded securities were artificially inflated or distorted, and relying directly or 13 indirectly on the false and misleading statements made by defendants, or upon the 14 integrity of the market in which Silver Wheaton's securities trade, and/or on the 15 absence of material adverse information that was known to or recklessly disregarded 16 by Defendants but not disclosed in public statements by defendants during the Class 17 Period, Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class acquired Silver Wheaton 18 securities during the Class Period at artificially high prices and were damaged 19 thereby.

20 515. At the time of said misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiffs and other 21 members of the Class were ignorant of their falsity, and believed them to be true. Had 22 Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class and the marketplace known the truth 23 regarding Silver Wheaton's financial results and condition, Plaintiffs and other 24 members of the Class would not have purchased or otherwise acquired Silver 25 Wheaton securities, or, if they had acquired such securities during the Class Period, 26 they would not have done so at the artificially inflated prices or distorted prices at 27 which they did.

3 517. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendants' wrongful conduct, 4 Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class suffered damages in connection with 5 their respective purchases and sales of Silver Wheaton's securities during the Class 6 Period.

18 post-judgment interest, as well as her reasonable attorneys' fees, expert fees and other
